About Larry Trujillo Mr. Trujillo is one of the original founders of the Ryan Tyler Group (RTG), established in 1992. RTG is a private, management consulting firm and maintains a low-key presence as preferred by RTG clients. In addition, and dependent on the engagement, RTG works synergistically with a professional network of subject matter experts throughout North America, Europe, Asia, and South America to meet the exclusive needs of RTG's clients. Through RTG's "CEO for Hire" program, Mr. Trujillo has also served as the Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of several client companies. Additionally, he has held leadership and senior-level positions with Bank of America, Instituto Bancario San Paolo di Torino (Italy), First Los Angeles Bank, and California Federal Bank.

Mr. Trujillo has also been actively engaged in deal structuring, debt financing, corporate transactions, and business lending across the globe in excess of $7 Billion. His actions and interests have touched on all aspects of funding including corporate, international, real estate, structured derivatives, investment banking, trade financing, and government guaranteed lending.

His commitment to economic development and an extensive board and political appointee service background led him to the US Small Business Administration (SBA) where he invested a decade in various roles including national Director of Financial Oversight for the Office of Small Business Development Centers; Director of Lender Relations; and District International Trade Officer.
