

MAKING YOURSELF A DIFFICULT TARGET FOR CYBERCRIMINALS

with David McSweeney, Vice President, Client Assurance for Fidelity Investment's Information Security Office

For many clients, oversight of meaningful controls around their digital day-to-day life could contribute to them being targeted by financially motivated cybercriminals. Fidelity has extensive experience in this area and shares ideas to help clients make themselves a harder target. Subject matter experts from Fidelity's Enterprise Cybersecurity group will discuss the current cyber fraud threat landscape and focus on things Fidelity does to protect client accounts, as well as what clients can do to better protect themselves from those threats.
